Hor. Ep.

WHILE generous O—g—e's unwearied Pain
Wakes up a Muſe from INDIA's ſavage Plain;
Warm'd, as ſhe may, with the humane Deſign,
Yet ſcarcely vain to paint a Worth like thine;
Her Numbers languid, and unform'd her Voice,
She hopes her Credit only from her Choice;
When Acts ſo amiably great inſpire,
'Tis Praiſe to love, and Merit to admire.
EXTENSIVE Bliſs the God-like Breaſt muſt crown,
That makes each Good of the Diſtreſs'd his own;
And worthy Heroes ev'ry Tear muſt riſe,
Caught from the Wretches Woe, and Mourners Sighs;
When if the juſt Impreſſions fire impart,
And the prompt Hand aſſerts the rigorous Heart;
Sublime beyond Applauſe!—— the conſcious Mind
Foretaſtes the Heav'n that form'd him for his Kind:
Hence Horrors, Dungeons, are with Joy explor'd,
And ſqualid Wretches feel the Day reſtor'd;
The Sons of Want the chearful Morſel know,
And Eaſe ſurprizes in the Den of Woe.
Nor think the Brave enough already done,
The Brave ſhall finiſh what the Good begun:
Oceans in vain their Bounds immenſe oppoſe,
And ſpeakleſs Horrors to the Eye diſcloſe;
The Thirſt of others Good— eternal Fame!
Stills the loud Storm, and Perils loſe their Name.
Nor leſs in vain to ſtay his great Efforts,
The Arts of Cities aid the Pomp of Courts:
Senates ſo lately charm'd with Eaſe he flies,
While from Neglect augmented Glories riſe.
But ſay O truly Great, if Words can ſhew
The boneſt Joys thy generous Boſom knew,
When firſt the ever blooming Clime you found,
Where GEORGE's Name adorns the teeming Ground.
With ſilent Joy the ſmiling GENIUS ſtood,
And hail'd thy Preſence to the living Wood;
When thus thy Thoughts. "Here let the Wretch have
"The Hungry plenty, and the Poor increaſe; [Peace,
"Nor fear to pine, while waſting Nature fails
"By tedious Intervals on ſcanty Meals;
"The gaping Young loud craving new Supplies
"The weeping Parents wretched Lot denies;
"Nor as when ſhaking near the lofty Pole,
"They trembled more to heap the ſtinted Coal.
"Whilſt here luxuriant Foreſts gladly ſpare
"The ſweeteſt Fuel for the choiceſt Fare.
"And when the happily increaſing Band
"Farther repleniſh the inviting Land.
"IBERIA's motley Race a Bound ſhall know,
"And Slave contented in the Mine below;
"Nor GALLIA's Sons of new Encroachments dream,
"Glad while they taſte the MISSISSIPPI Stream;
"In Peace 'till we preſide, in War prevail,
"And the [illegible] World allows the BRITISH Scale.

THUS tho' the failing Numbers lag behind
The genuine Ardours of thy God-like Mind,
They pregnant with the Genius whence they ſhone,
Suggeſt a Spirit not unlike thy own:
Exalted Pleaſures in my Boſom riſe,
And ſilent Tears of Joy invade my Eyes:
Oft as the Bigot's helliſh Zeal ſhall flame,
While Charity deplores Religion's Name:
Oft as the Luſt of Tyrants to inſlave,
Shall grind the Needy, and diſtract the Brave,
Nations ſhall to the Iſle of HEROES run,
GEORGE calls the Wretch of every Clime his Son:
He wills them free, and bids them to poſſeſs,
While lightned Hearts and grateful Minds confeſs,
To the firm Glories of ſo bright a Scene,
CÆSAR and AMMON's Sons were greatly Mean.
The Fame of Tyrants ſhould, if Juſtice ſway'd,
Be howl'd thro' Deſarts their Ambition made;
But ſure an endleſs Race ſhall learn their Praiſe,
Who made the Heirs to Want, the Lords of Eaſe;
The gloomy Wood to flowing Harveſts chang'd,
And founded Cities where the Tyger rang'd.
THEN may the great Reward aſſign'd by FATE
Prove thy own Wiſh—— to ſee the Work compleat;
'Till GEORGIA's Silks on ALBION's Beauties ſhine,
Or gain new Luſtre from the ROYAL LINE;
'Till from the ſunny Hills the Vines diſplay
Their various Berries to the gilded Day;
Whence the glad Vintage to the Vale may flow,
Refreſhing Labour, and diſpelling Woe;
While the fat Plains with pleaſant Olives ſhine,
And ZAURA's Date improves the barren Pine.
Fair in the Garden ſhall the Lemon grow,
And every Grove HESPERIAN Apples ſhow;
The Almond the delicious Fruit behold,
Whoſe Juice the feign'd Immortals quaff'd of old;
Nor haply on the well examin'd Plain
Shall CHINA's fragrant Leaf be ſought in vain;
While the conſenting Climate gladly proves
The coſtly Balms that weep in INDIAN Groves.
And when in Time the wealthy Lands increaſe,
Shall bend the Curious to the Arts of Peace;
They, with ſmall Pain, aſſiſted by the Clime,
Shall pull the Anana, and unload the Lime;
Thro' Groves of Citron breath ARABIA's Gale,
And parch the Berry drank in MECCA's Vale.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

SEVILLE, October 21.

DON Simon Manſo, Son of Don Antonio, Governor of Ceuta, and Marſhal de Camp of the Army of his Catholick Majeſty, arrived Yeſterday about ſeven in the Evening, with the following agreeable News:

The 16th Inſtant two Slaves, being fled from the Moors Camp, came to Ceuta, and reported, that the ſaid Camp conſiſted of 5 or 6000 Men, among whom were 1000 Blacks and 700 Horſe; that they had only two Pieces of

Cannon,

Cannon, but expected ſoon 24 more, with a great Number of choſen Troops, and a large Quantity of Ammunitions of War to attack the City in Form, under the Direction of the Duke de Riperda, who was ſtill at Tetuan ill of the Gout.

Upon this Report, which was conformable to divers other Advices which we received before, the Governor held a Council of War, and propoſed to make a general Salley on the Moors before they could receive the Reinforcements they expected. This Propoſition was unanimouſly approved of, and 'twas reſolved to put it in Execution the next Day, the 17*th* Inſt. and to attack the Enemy in 4 different Parts. The Troops deſigned for this Expedition, divided themſelves into four Columns, compoſed each of 3 Companies of Granadiers, of 6 Piquets, and 3 Batallions, commanded by the Colonels Count Mahoni, Don Joſeph Maſones, Don John Pingarron, and Don Baſil de Gante. They all commanded 70 Horſe and 100 Granadiers to march under the Orders of the Marquis de Valdecunas, who had his Poſt on the right Side of the Sea; as alſo a great Number of Workmen, and ſome Engineers, for demoliſhing and levelling the Enemy's Works. The Brigadier Don Joſeph d'Aremburu, Captain of the Spaniſh Guards, was appointed for the Conduct of this Expedition.

The 17*th*, at half an Hour after 4 in the Morning, the Troops march'd out in good Order, and attacked the Moors with much Valour, who, after ſome Reſiſtance, were obliged to abandon their Poſts, and to retire towards the Seraglio, where was the main Strength of their Camp, the Spaniards purſuing them, the Fight began, but ſuch a Terror was put among the Mooriſh Infantry, that they retired in Diſorder, and ours made a great Slaughter of them. The Baſſaw was the firſt that fled, abandoning the Seraglio and all the other Poſts. The Cavalry, however, made more Reſiſtance, and fought valiently, but at laſt were obliged to give Way to the Valour of our Troops. The Enemy being retired behind the Mountains, Part of them rallied there, and came from Time to Time to attack the Spaniards on the Side of the Seraglio for near 7 Hours together, while we were employ'd in levelling the Trenches and demoliſhing the Works, Barracks, and other Buildings of the Moors, and carrying away the Proviſions and Ammunitions, which were very abundant. After this Expedition, the Troops returned in good Order into the Town, but could not bring away the two braſs Cannon, which were of 36 Pounders each, for want of Mules, however, they rendred them uſeleſs, by nailing them up. We cannot learn the Number of the Slain on the Enemy's Side, but by the dead Bodies it appears to be great. We took ſome Priſoners, and ſeveral Horſes, alſo a Standard, which a Soldier of the Regiment of Victoria, made himſelf Maſter of during the Heat of the Battle. The Booty taken by our Troops is ineſtimable, the Moors abandoning all their Baggage, which was very rich. The Spaniards loſt a ſubaltern Officer, 3 Serjeants, and 14 Soldiers and 10 Captains, 6 Subalterns, 8 Serjeants, and 150 Solders were wounded. The Count de Walderen, a Daniſh Colonel, who went from Seville to Ceuta, to ſerve in this Expedition as a Voluntier, very much diſtinguiſhed himſelf during the whole Action, as did alſo the Count d'Aranda, another Voluntier, & the Governor of Ceuta ſpeaks of them with much Applauſe. While the Garriſon made this Salley ſome armed Veſſels ſeconded the Attack on the Sea-ſide, & the great firing which they made, put the Moors into no ſmall Confuſion. There was found among the Baſſaw's Papers a Letter wrote from an European Merchant ſettled at Tetuan, in which he demands Payment for Amunition of War, with which thoſe of his Country furniſhed the Moors.

Madrid, Octob. 28. Some Advices from Melilla mention a bloody Battle between a Brother of Muley Abdalla, King of Morocco, and the Baſſaw of Texar, who went to meet the Rebels with a conſiderable Army, and that the Baſſaw was mortally wounded, his Army put to flight, and about 4000 were kill'd on the Spot.

Paris, Nov. 19. On St. Martin's Day the King ſent circular Letters to all the exiled Preſidents and Counſellors of the Parliament, by which his Majeſty revokes the Order ſent to them the 16*th* of Sept. laſt, for their retiring to the Places of their Exile; ſo that all thoſe Gentlemen are ſoon expected to return hither.

LONDON, Octob. 14.

On Saturday Night laſt, a young Gentleman very well dreſs'd, brought to the Watch-houſe at Fleet-bridge a young Woman, whom he charged with robbing him; the Girl being ask'd by the Conſtable what ſhe had to ſay for herſelf, anſwered, that ſhe agreed with the Gentleman for ſix Pence to grant him Favours in her Way, which the Gentleman accordingly had, & gave her a Shilling to make him Change, but ſhe not having ſix Pence to give him, kept the Shilling, and offered to get two ſix Pences for it, in order to give him his Change. The Gentleman own'd this to be the Caſe, but inſiſted upon its being a Robbery; the Girl inſiſted upon her Innocence, and charged him for defaming her Character, and the Conſtable moſt juſtly ſent them both to the Compter, Where it is hoped the Jailors inſiſted upon their full Fees before the Gentleman got the Change of his Shilling.

His Majeſty has been pleaſed to grant his Commiſſion to the Right Hon. the Lords of the Admiralty, empowering them to erect a Corporation for the Relief of the poor Widows of Sea-Officers; which Corporation is to conſiſt of the Lord High Admiral or the Lords of the Admiralty for the Time being, the Commiſſioners of the Navy and Victualling for the Time being, & as many of the Captains, Lieutenants, &c. of the Navy as ſhall agree to become Members of the ſaid Corporation; and for that End there is to be a Meeting at the Admiralty-Office for the firſt Time, on the 1ſt of next Month, Each Officer of the Navy may if he pleaſes ſign towards

towards it; those that sign are to pay 3 d. per Pound out of their Pay yearly, and the Widows only of those that sign are to have the Benefit. His Majesty has been graciously pleased to grant for promoting so good a Design 10,000 l. and the Lords of the Admiralty and Commissioners of the Navy and Victualling have already signed. The Allowances are to be thus settled: An Admiral's Widow to have 50 l. per Ann. a Captain's 40 l. a Lietenant's 30 l. & all other Officers Widows 20 l. each. There being an Officers Chest at Chatham, the same will be taken into this Corporation, and the Widows upon that Chest will be allowed as abovementioned. The Money that is to be raised by this Contribution will be put out to Use as the Commissioners shall think proper at their Meeting.

Octob. 21. Yesterday was 7-Night an Experiment was made on Board a Ship at Blackwall, in the Service of the East-India Company, of an Engine that is so curiously contrived, as to tack a large Ship about at Sea in a Calm, which was much approved of by several present; but it was the Opinion of some, that it would be of more Service, if it was fixed at the Stem instead of the Stern: This Engine is chiefly designed for the Service of the Company's Ships, in case they should be attacked by any of Angria the Pyrate's Grabes in a Calm, with which they might be able to defend themselves, and bring a Broadside to bear upon an Enemy almost as when under a Gale of Wind. We have not yet heard who is the Author of this curious Engine, but, they say, it is not the famous Artist at the Court End of the Town, who sometime ago invented the dextrous Method of making Men tack about; for his Engine never makes Men bear upon the Enemy, but upon their Friends and Countrymen. [Fog

We hear from Waltham in Leicestershire, near Melton-Mowbray, that a Mason's Daughter, about 11 Years of Age, is possessed with an Evil Spirit, in such a Manner, as to throw her out of Bed into Fits, and pinching Bits of Flesh out of her Arms, &c. and has twice put her Collar Bone out: she is thrown into Fits often, and lies as one dead, and at the same Time there is such a knocking, & thundering Noise (sometimes at the Door, but oftner near the Child) as is terrible to all about her; and if any Person bids the Spirit knock any Number of Times, or to any Tune, it certainly does. Most of the Clergy and other People of Note thereabouts, particularly the Lord How, have had the Girl at their own Houses, and have all proved it to be no Fallacy or Imposition. All the Account she gives, when she comes out of her Fits, is, that she is carried into a Wood, and tormented by three Persons.

Nov. 4. We have an Account from Lisbon, that a most violent Storm of Wind began there on the 4th Inst. O. S. about 7 in the Morning, and tho' it lasted about 3 Hours, yet most of the Ships in the Tagus, were either sunk, drove on shore, or suffered very great Damage.

Last Monday Mr. Philip Fidd, Carpenter of his Majesty's Ship the Prince, a 2d Rate at Chatham, aged 82, was married to a young Girl of 16 Years; his Son having married her Sister, who is six Years older, some Time before. This Girl may now be properly said to be a Tid Bit.

On Monday last a very remarkable Accident happened, one Tho. Caton, a Youth of about 18 or 19 Years of Age, whose Father is a Cabinet-maker, in Ninepin-Alley in Noble-street, had proposed to see the Lord Mayor's Show upon the River; but before he went out, he wrote upon a piece of Paper his Name and Place of Abode, and put it in his Pocket. When he was writing it, his Mother said, Tommy, what are you a Writing? He answered, Nothing, but that in case of any Misfortune, they may know where I live. The Boat in which he went happened to be sunk by one of the Company's Barges opposite to Somerset Stairs, and another Man and a Woman, that were in it, were pulled into the Barge by the Watermen with their Hooks; but the young Man was drowned, and his Body was next Day brought home by the Direction found in his Breeches Pocket.

They write from Reading, that some Days ago, one Richard Boulter, being digging in a Sand-pit, with his little Son by him, perceiving the Bank above him to give Way, he got up the Boy, and threw him out, saying, God bless thee, I shall never see thee more, which Words he had scarce pronounced, before the Bank fell in, and smothered him before any Relief came.

WHereas many of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace for this Province, have frequently neglected their Duty, in attending the General Goal-Delivery and Sessions of the Peace, and in returning into Court their Informations, Examinations, and Recognizances, as they ought to do, for which Defaults its incumbent on me to Fine them; yet, for this Time, it's thought fit, that the several Fines, set on the Justices at the last Sessions, should be remitted; but withal to signify, that it is their Duty to attend the General Sessions, and to make due Returns of all their Procedings; Otherwise all Fines for such Neglects will (for the future) be levy'd upon them, which it is hop'd they will take Care to prevent, by a faithful Discharge of the Duty they owe to their King and Country, and of the Trust reposed in them for that Purpose.
